

No problem can be solved from the same consciousness that created it. We have to learn to see the world anew.

ALBERT EINSTEIN

Education for Change

A Vision for a Sustainable 21st Century

Professional Development Presentation Series and Workshops for Educators

WHAT DOES SUSTAINABILITY MEAN?

WHAT IS EDUCATION FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT (ESD)?

WHAT DOES ESD LOOK LIKE IN THE CLASSROOM?

WHAT ARE SOME SUCCESS STORIES OF CLASSROOM AND SCHOOL INITIATIVES?

- presentations can be delivered to in-school and/or board-wide professional development sessions, as well as conferences.
- presentations are customized for elementary, intermediate and secondary educators.

The Education for Change presentation and/or workshop for educators is aimed at 'revisiting and rethinking' the schooling paradigm in order to meet the emergent needs and realities of the 21st Century.

To achieve a 'revolution of consciousness,' we need to begin engaging in meaningful dialogue on ethics and values in critical mass. We are in need of educators, educational settings, and educational policies and pedagogy that model and practice a sustainability imperative. Presenter Lisa (Diz) Glithero will address how to make sustainability education real in your teaching practice and school culture. Success stories of exemplary classroom and school initiatives will be highlighted.

Ways to continue momentum after the presentation:

- A "sustainability education kit" of curriculum linked activities, demonstrations and resources will be provided to the school for teachers to do with students to further examine sustainability concepts and opportunities.
- A "Sustainable School Report Card" will be provided to support students, teachers and administrative staff in taking long term action in their school community.

Education is the key to transformation.

United Nation's Decade on Education for Sustainable Development (DESD):
2005 - 2014

web: www.eyesproject.com email: diz@eyesproject.com
tel: 819.827.5119

